

Position: Developer Intern

Location: New York, NY or Ann Arbor, MI

HookLogic is a software firm (SaaS) based in New York City, with offices in Ann Arbor and the United Kingdom. Our Incentive Manager and Merchant AdManager products are gaining traction with large eCommerce companies. They have a proven record of generating additional, measurable revenue on our clients' websites, despite a tough economic climate. To learn more visit www.hooklogic.com

What We're Looking For

We are looking for motivated software development interns at our new offices in Manhattan for a paid internship working alongside professional developers. We offer competitive compensation to individuals who thrive in a fast-paced, rapidly evolving start-up environment. We are looking for innovative thinkers who can apply the newest technologies to solve real business problems, working with management to quickly prototype concepts and convert the best ideas into products.

Desired Qualifications:

- Pursuing Bachelor/Master degree in CS or other technical/science/math
- Some experience writing code and web-based development, professionally, independently, or as part of an internship
- Desire and talent to grow your career with a web-based software startup
- Independent programming projects or achievements are a plus
- Strong debugging and problem solving skills
- Experience with several of the following:
- HTML, ASP.NET, AJAX, JavaScript, C#, Database, CSS, XML
- In-depth JavaScript experience is especially valuable
- Front-end UI development
- Strong understanding of software usability and visual design principles
- Object Oriented Development
- Database design and development
- Experience with site testing, including browser compatibility and accessibility testing
- Familiarity with W3C compliance requirements

If you feel you are the right candidate, please send your resume to careers@hooklogic.com.